Hancock Action League gives board alternate plan

By BREARD SNELLINGS
The Hancock Action League presented an alternate plan for reorganizing Hancock County voting districts at Monday's meeting of the County Board of Supervisors.

The presentation came during a public hearing for redistricting, and was presented by Father Francis Theriault, representing the NAACP.

HAL opposed the present county plan for redistricting on the basis of distribution of black population in the five districts.

Technically, the board has until the next general election in November to come up with a new districting plan, or the next election could be challenged in court as being invalid. The U.S. Justice Department must first approve any plan submitted by the County Board of Supervisors.

According to the HAL plan, District 2 would have the most blacks (642), or 13.6 percent of the black population in the county. The population in their drawing of the district would be 4,702 people, with a four percent deviation from the average district population of 4,899, based on a total county population of 24,497, divided by five.

The county plan, developed by the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, a Gulfport-based organization, also calls for 4,702 population in District 2.

The HAL plan for District 1 has 308 black in a total of 4,670 with a 4.7 percent deviation. The county plan is for 4,944 with a one percent deviation.

The HAL plan for District 3 calls for 5,100 total population, with only eight blacks and a 5.6 percent deviation. The county plan calls for 4,972 population and a 1.5 percent deviation.

In District 4, HAL calls for 4,794 population, with 165 of that being black and a 2.8 percent deviation. The county plan calls for 5,072 with a 3.5 percent deviation.

In District 5, HAL calls for 5,231 population with 24.5 percent (1,313) black, and a 6.6 percent deviation.

Deviation, according to the U.S. Justice Department guidelines, shouldn't exceed 3.3 percent.

The only major difference in the boundaries between the two plans are in Districts 4 and 5.

The board moved to make the HAL plan part of the board's public record.

In other action, board attorney

Bay man jailed on rape charge

Charles D. Cagle, 35, of Bay St. Louis is being held in Hancock County Jail on charges of rape, kidnapping and auto theft.

He is being held under a $50,000 bond. Cagle is being charged with the kidnapping and rape of a 31-year-old Bay St. Louis woman.

According to Sheriff Ronald Peterson, "the woman allegedly picked up Cagle Monday evening in front of the VFW building on St. John St. because she knew him, and was going to drive him to his house, which is in Bayside Park."

"After giving him a ride to Bayside Park, he allegedly attacked and raped her and held her captive in her van for two to three hours."

"The woman supposedly escaped, and then called the Sheriff's Department at 3 a.m. Tuesday morning. We picked Cagle up at his home at Route 2, Box 666, Bayside Park, at 8 a.m."

"The woman was taken to Hancock County Hospital for treatment of facial lacerations and bruises on her back, then was released."

Challenger engine passes NSTL test

By EDGAR PEREZ

Preliminary data obtained during a full duration, 500-second test firing Tuesday of Space Shuttle Main Engine 2017 indicates the power plant is ready for mounting on the orbiter Challenger.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman Mark Herring at National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County said Wednesday the test was conducted under "simulated mission" conditions. Ignition came at 5:30 p.m. with the firing procedures following actual flight conditions as closely as possible, Herring reported.

"The engine is now undergoing post-test checkup at NSTL, and if all goes well will be shipped to Cape Kennedy late next week," Herring explained.

The engine will be installed on Challenger which now is scheduled for its first flight in March.

ME 2017 tested at NSTL this week will replace a Challenger main engine which developed an unrepairable fuel leak in early February, pushing launch back into the following month.

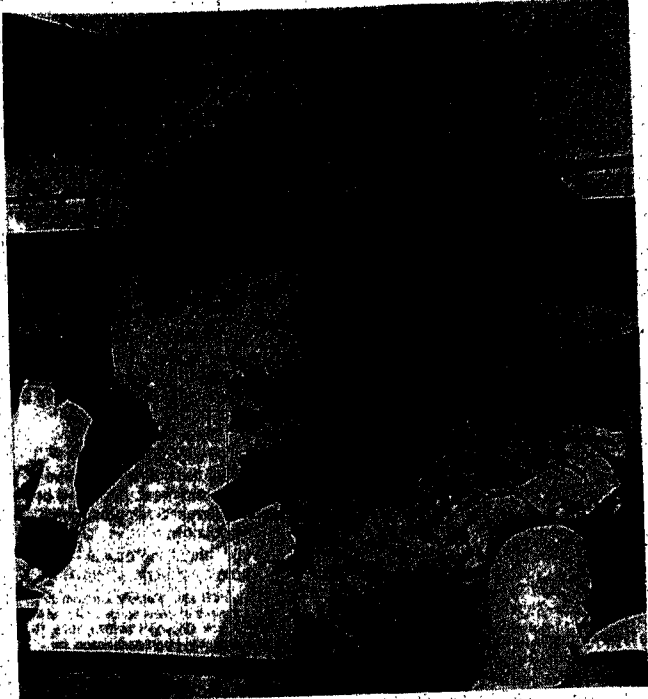

During Tuesday's 500-second firing, the engine was pushed for some 380 seconds to 104 percent of rated thrust.

"Rockwell personnel throttled the engine up and down to simulate actual flight conditions," Herring added.

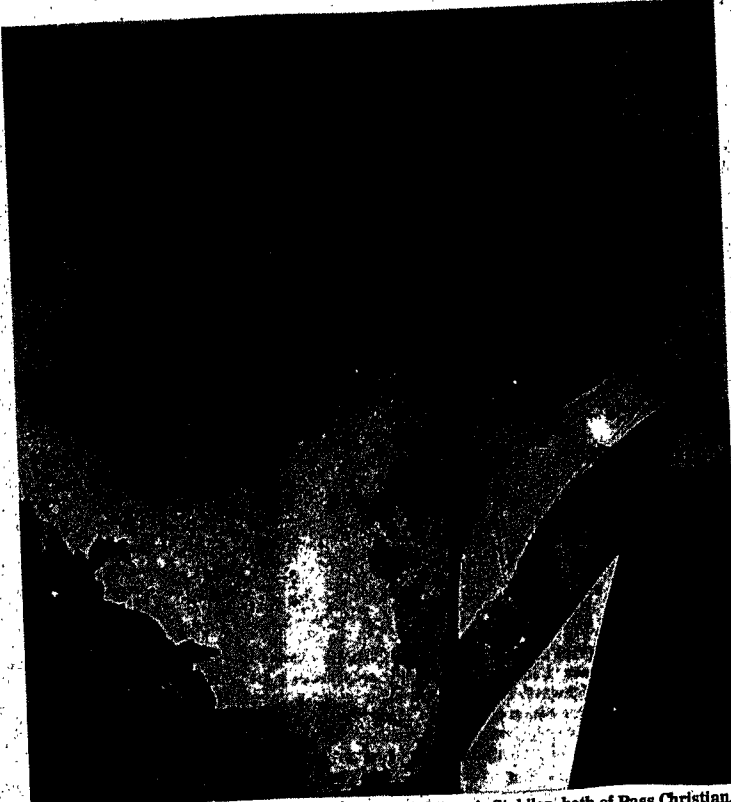

"ME 2017 is a new engine," the NASA official pointed out.

"However, we are building these Space Shuttle engines for repeated use in up to 50 missions, and the design allows for the interchanging of parts," he added.

Phone company to verify third number billing

Let's say you're away from home, in a phone booth to make a long distance call and you want to charge the call to a third number. The operator takes the information and immediately puts the call through. Right? No quite. At least not after April 1.

"Beginning on that date telephone operators will begin requiring positive acceptance on all third number calls from public telephones," said Don Roberts, district manager, South Central Bell. "After April 1, when a customer wants to bill a call from a pay phone to a third number, the operator will ask the customer to hold on. The operator will call the third number to verify that it's acceptable to charge the call to that number. If acceptance is given, the call will be put through. If the operator doesn't get acceptance, the operator will tell the customer that other billing arrangements (Calling Card, placing the call collect, paying for it at the time of the call) will have to be made in order for the call to be completed."

"This new procedure will provide a measure of security for our customers," Roberts continued. "Customers can be assured that calls from pay phones won't be billed to their number without their approval." To increase awareness of this change, South Central Bell operators started on Feb. 1 advising customers that positive acceptance of third number billing will be necessary on April 1.

"Until April 1, operators will put this type of call through," Roberts said. "During February and March, operators will try to verify number billing. If they cannot, they will still put the call through. But, after April, operators will not put through any calls that aren't verified by someone at the billed number."

SOCIAL SECURITY

The mail has been running exceptionally heavy the past couple of weeks on an important tax issue of 1983: repeal of the 10 percent withholding tax on interest you earn from a savings account.

As many of you know, I have introduced legislation to repeal this tax, which I believe to be counterproductive and an undue burden on people who manage to save a little money. Unless action is taken on my bill, H.R. 6, or one of the others, the withholding will become effective on July 1.

House Speaker "Tip" O'Neill has said flatly that repeal will not be considered. Another major issue on which people are writing involves the recent report filed by the bipartisan National Commission on Social Security Reform. The commission was appointed by the President, the Speaker and the Senate Majority Leader to propose ways of strengthening the system.

I think headway was made when the commission reached a consensus on a package designed to solve short-term and long-term funding problems with the system. The report contains a number of questionable and controversial features.

The Ways and Means Committee is considering the package now and, hopefully, will improve it before it reaches the floor. I feel I must see the final package before deciding how to vote.

To realize how the system got into such terrible financial shape, it's important to understand what it was meant to do.

Social security was designed as an old-age insurance program. It initially did not include disability coverage, early retirement, student benefits, medicare or the cost-of-living adjustments. Obviously, there have been significant changes in the program since its inception, and some of these changes have not served the system well.

Now, it faces a $169 billion shortfall over the next seven years. Recognizing the bleak future, the commission has noted several recommendations, including the following:

- Raise $23 billion through coverage of civil service employees who come into the government in 1984 and afterward, and prohibit withdrawal of state and local employees from coverage;
- Raising 40 billion through acceleration of already-scheduled payroll tax increases over 1984-89. The increase would average 85-cents a week for the $20,000 per year worker; and
- Saving $40 billion through a six-month delay on COLAs, but preserving protections for low income elderly persons.

There are other proposals, too, including raising $30 billion in funds by including some percentage of benefits in the income tax up to a certain level and giving incentives for later retirement.

I want to stress these are only proposals at this point and a lot of debate lies ahead. One thing is for certain: Congress must act and act soon to strengthen social security or the problem will simply get worse.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

BLOCK GRANTS

A technical assistance program designed to provide local governments with a better understanding of the state's Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program and its application process has been established by the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs.

The new program, which was created to assist small and rural communities, as well as those which did not receive funding in fiscal 1982, allows communities to receive special assistance relating to the CDBG program from technical assistance providers.

"Some technical assistance programs are broad, providing information to communities primarily through workshops," said Mark Nixon, assistant director of the state's CDBG program. "This technical assistance program will enable us to offer hand-on assistance to individual communities, ensuring us that practically all local governments in Mississippi have access to CDBG funds."

The CDBG program provides grants to local governments for community development activities in areas having a population of 50,000 or less. Applications are directed toward public facilities, economic development or housing or a combination of two or three of these targets.

Federal-State Programs received 237 applications from 75 percent of the eligible local governments in Mississippi during fiscal 1982. Of those applying, 56 communities received funds totaling approximately $16 million for area improvements. An additional $11.6 million was allocated to 15 communities for ongoing HUD projects.

The selected providers will then work directly with each community to assess local needs, inform local officials of application procedures and regulations, conduct surveys to determine socio-economic or housing conditions, analyze census data, negotiate with the public/private sector and formulate strategies.

Persons desiring additional information concerning the 1983 CDBG program may write the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, Department of Planning and Policy, 1304 Walter Sillers Building, Jackson 39202 or call 393-3085.

THIS IS NOT A GARBAGE DUMP—Scenes like this in Hancock County are a disgrace, especially on United States highways. This photo was taken last Saturday on US-90 near the intersection of Highway 607. It appears to be a garbage dump, and we feel responsible persons could probably identify some of the folks doing the dumping by probing the garbage. There is just too much of this type of illegal dumping being done in Hancock County. We have a designated dump, residents who do not have garbage collection, or, have one and not using it should be arrested, taken to court and have to pay the penalty. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

If it concerns you, it concerns us

Federal spending cuts should begin with benefits and salaries of congressmen.

The Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

The following letter is Congressman Trent Lott's answer to my Jan. 14, 1983 letter published in the Jan. 23, 1983 issue of the Sea Coast Echo, Lott's "reply," following my letter was actually an answer to a telecon I had with his Washington office.

As anyone can see, Congressman Lott has completely ignored every point in my letter. He and the rest of the politicians can complain about how much federal employees get but their own benefits are one of the best kept secrets in government.

Since I work in New Orleans, I called the New Orleans Public Library for information on congressmen's retirement benefits. It took them a few days (from Thursday afternoon until Tuesday morning) and all they could come up with was an article in the January 17, 1983 issue of U.S. News & World Report. While all the benefits are not given, a partial list shows:

- House Members:
 - Salary $69,000 per year (outside earnings limited to $20,940;
 - Two large furnished office suites;
 - $353,000 a year for staff;
 - $256,700 a year for travel, phone supplies and other expenses;
 - A retirement annuity of $3,725 at age 60 with only 5 years of service (a federal employee would have to earn

- $116,333 a year to match that); and
- A retirement annuity of $52,350 after 30 years service (a federal employee would have to earn $116,333 a year to match that).

- Senators:
 - Salary $80,663 per year (no limit to outside earnings);
 - Elegantly furnished offices;
 - Up to $1.2 million of personal staff;
 - A liberal (whatever that means) expense account; and
 - A retirement annuity of $45,497 per year after 30 years service (a federal employee would have to earn $93,067 a year to match that).

- The President (not mentioned in the article):
 - Salary $200,000 per year;
 - Free offices;
 - Free living quarters;
 - A $50 million a year household budget; and
 - A retirement annuity of $100,000 per year plus a lucrative expense account (regardless of how short a time he might serve).

The congressmen do not have to account for all of the above monies. So the next time one of your congressmen sends around a questionnaire asking where they can cut money, tell them to cut it from their own budget.

Sincerely,
Ian L. Dorion

Bay St. Louis, Ms 39520

Dear Mr. Dorion:

Thank you very much for contacting me to express your opposition to the proposal of the National Commission on Social Security Reform to bring in to the social security system only new federal workers. At this point, this recommendation would only affect new workers hired, not any now on the job.

As I am sure you are aware, this proposal is one of a number included in the commission's report to put the social security system back on track. I share your concerns because there are some proposals in this package which I do not like, but I do think that it is good that the Congress has a basis from which to begin its consideration of this issue.

I do want to emphasize, however, that this report is not necessarily the vehicle which will become law. It is very likely that the report will be altered during its consideration by the House Ways & Means Committee, so I am withholding any initial judgments on the report until a bill has been drafted in the House.

In this regard, I can assure you that your comments will be very helpful to me as I am called on to consider this issue. If I may be of assistance to you in any matter, please do not hesitate to contact me. With best wishes, I am

Investigative report on Bay St. Louis police Department recommended by Grand Jury apparently pigeon-holed

Feb. 10, 1983

Dear Sir,

In July of 1982 the Grand Jury made a recommendation that the Bay St. Louis Police Department be investigated.

At that time the City Council announced that they would conduct an investigation of their own.

This all happened over seven months ago and the public still has not been informed of the results.

It seems to me that we need a police force that we can be proud of. The crime rate is high all over the United States and we need to start setting an example for the youth of our country.

They are our future. How can we expect the young people of Bay St. Louis to respect law and order when the Bay St. Louis law of officers are spread across the headlines in the role of the criminal.

The Hancock County Sheriff and the surrounding cities and counties seem to have reliable officers.

If they have problems with their officers, they do something to avoid the type of publicity that Bay St. Louis has had for the past couple of years.

Maybe Bay Police Department needs a new policy for hiring. Perhaps they could get assistance from the sheriff or the other police chiefs.

I don't pretend to have the answer to this problem but I think it's time that someone start looking for the answer. Respectfully,
Lou Wilkerson

City responds promptly to clean-up duties following recent storm

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

The City of Bay St. Louis is to be commended for its prompt and efficient clean up job following the Jan. 20 freak storm which left beachfront properties littered with debris.

The Cedar Point area where we live was notably pounded by the storm which deposited huge logs, weeds, bottles and trash everywhere.

In less than four days the area was cleared and the litter hauled away. It is ironic that beachfront property owners, who usually suffer the greatest damage in any storm, also bear the brunt of higher assessments and taxes. Additionally, many of us are part-time residents not entitled to homestead exemptions.

And for those who do not vote in Mississippi it is sometimes difficult to get city attention to our special problems. Therefore, it was particularly gratifying to me, as one of those persons, to have such a splendid response from the city to this need.

Yours sincerely,
Wm. H. McCandless Jr.

Bay School officials concerned about vehicle, equipment upkeep

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees Monday night eyed $4,000 in bus repair bills and was informed a district pickup truck and tractor are in poor condition.

To try to reduce the bus repair bills, Walter Turcotte, board president, appointed Trustees James Ginn and Cyril Glover to serve on a committee with Donald Caldwell, assistant superintendent and transportation supervisor, to investigate preventive maintenance procedures and present a report at the board's April meeting.

Glover reported January bus repair bills from Turan-Lane Chevrolet in Bay St. Louis totaled $4,000.

Trustee Maurice Singleton said many of the repairs resulted from inadequate levels of engine oil, air pressure in tires and brake fluid.

Turcotte stated, "A few busses have got maintenance upkeep a little high and we want to determine if it's the drivers' fault."

He said the committee will review preventive maintenance policies and procedures.

Ginn suggested the committee check the age of busses to determine which should be replaced.

J.D. McCullough, superintendent of education, said the average life of the bus is 10-12 years and he hoped to replace one old bus with a new one this year.

Singleton, in reviewing one bill for correction of a bus engine knock, said the engine could have been replaced for the same amount.

Trustee Betty Diboll said those responsible for unnecessary repair bills should have their wrists slapped.

Regarding the pickup, McCullough reported the vehicle utilized at North Bay Elementary School should be replaced.

McCullough reluctantly revealed the pickup is in such poor condition that a state inspection sticker cannot be obtained for the vehicle.

He said the 1972 pickup needs about $1,000 in repairs to pass inspection.

Singleton and Glover recommended the pickup not be used until it can pass inspection because the district could be held liable in the event of an accident or citation issuance involving the vehicle.

Roger James, North Bay principal, said the pickup is utilized to transport food for the school cafeteria.

"Sometimes we can't drive the truck in the rain because it has no window," he stated.

In reference to the tractor utilized to cut grass at Tiger Stadium, McCullough said the machine is beyond repair.

He speculated the tractor is four or five years old.

Ginn said the tractor should not be in poor condition after that number of years and suggested a repair estimate be obtained.

McCullough reported an operator ran the machine into a tree and damaged it at Bay Senior High School about three years ago.

The superintendent said he would obtain the estimate.

However, the board authorized McCullough to seek a short term loan of about $18,500 and place newspaper advertisements seeking bids for a new tractor and truck.

In other business at the 7:30 p.m. regular meeting at the superintendent's high school office, the board:

—Authorized the superintendent, as he requested, to close the district's schools in the event of severe weather conditions;

—Authorized McCullough to draw some $632 from the State Accident Contingency Fund to pay for damages to Thomas Lane's vehicle which was involved in an accident with a district bus;

—Authorized paying a fee not exceeding $200 to Fred Wagner, district architect, to study federal documents asking if any asbestos materials are incorporated in the construction of any school buildings;

—Approved implementing a General Education Development Program for potential school dropouts as requested by McCullough;

—Accepted a recommendation by McCullough to re-hire all administrators for the 1983-84 school year;

—Amended the district's Chapter One budget to reflect a $14,938 increase including salaries, equipment and a $10,400 payment to the local school system;

—Changed its regular meeting next month to March 7 as requested by McCullough due to spring holidays;

—Took under advisement four bids from Hancock County companies for repainting the Tiger Dome exterior at the high school;

—Heard a report from McCullough that a breakin occurred sometime last weekend at the senior high guidance office where possibly two film projectors were stolen;

—Heard a report from James that North Bay is working with the school Parent-Teacher Organization in a two-year project to improve drainage and upgrade the playground;

—Heard a report from McCullough that the district reduced fuel purchases almost $3,000 in the first four months of the 1982-83 school year compared to the previous year by converting all busses to propane fuel.

MELVILLE V. LOISEL

Bay boy in coma

A fund has been set up for Melville V. Loisel, a Bay St. Louis teenager, who has been in a coma since falling from a truck Friday night.

Eugene A. Loisel Sr., his father, says his son has stopped breathing on his own and is on life support systems at Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

His condition is stable, but doctors don't know when he will come out of the coma.

Loisel, 14, was riding in the back of a truck while helping his family move, when a mattress fell on him and knocked him off the truck, said Tim Waldrop, who is organizing fundraising activities for the boy.

A Melville Loisel Trust Fund has been opened at Hancock Bank to accept donations.

Also, collection jars are located at Burger King and Ward's on US-90 in Bay St. Louis, and at Imperial Lounge and McDonald's on US-90 in Waveland.

Buccaneer camper pad reservations available

Campers can now reserve a space at three Mississippi state parks. The new service was announced by Aubrey Rozzell, director Bureau of Recreation and Parks. Reservations for camping pads are now accepted at Buccaneer at Waveland, Paul B. Johnson at Hattiesburg, and Percy Quin at McComb.

A $10 fee, which pays for the first day, is required to reserve a camping pad. Subsequent days are at the regular published rate.

Reservations can be made in person at the park or by telephone. Telephone reservations require payment by Visa or MasterCard.

Rozzell said the three parks accepting camping reservations are among the most popular parks with campers and having a reservation system should provide an added service and convenience.

Walter Gex informed the supervisors that the Corps of Engineers was handling the obstructions in the Bayou Cadet channel which resulted from a Jan. 20 storm.

Gex also said the Navy Seabees in Gulfport are planning to remove the vessels which the storm forced onto the marshland near the bayou.

This includes a 43-ton fishing boat that is some 75 yards up into the marsh near Bayou Cadet Marina.

Gex and three supervisors also visited the office of Gov. William Winter, who issued a disaster declaration for the Bayou Cadet area, the first step in making the area eligible for federal aid.

Also, Geraldine Lang, of Hancock County Concerned Citizens, told the board that the Hancock County Chapter of the American Red Cross had spent $20,000 in aiding people who suffered damage, and homelessness in the January 20 storm, and that the Retired Senior Volunteer Program and the sheriff's department had contributed food to the cause.

Also, Ms. Lang asked the board to look into the possibility of getting more recipients eligible for the presidential and U.S. Welfare Department program of handing out free cheese and butter to the needy, pointing out that many elderly and unemployed weren't on welfare rolls and hadn't been approved by the department as recipients.

Supervisor Sam Pernicaro from District 4 pointed out that last time, anyone who asked for cheese and butter was served after the Welfare Dept. vouchers had been all turned in.

The proposed changeover of the Justice Court system from five judges and clerks, based on five county districts, to two, based on two county divisions, was discussed.

The proposed county dividing line is Highway 603 to Nicholson Avenue. HAL representative Father Theriault said the only difference HAL would suggest is extending the line from Nicholson Avenue to the dividing line between Bay St. Louis and Waveland city limits.

In other business, public defender William Frisbee was given a raise from $1,000 a month to $2,000 a month.

Open a Hancock Bank Individual Retirement Account, and CUT YOUR TAXES.

One of the biggest tax breaks in years has come along, and it's waiting for you, at Hancock Bank. It's the Individual Retirement Account—and it just may be the only real weapon you have to beat back inflation and save for your retirement.

Cut your taxes two ways.

IRAs have been around for a while now, but effective January 1st, sweeping new changes make them more attractive than ever.

With the new rules, now anyone with earned income can open an IRA, whether already covered by a pension plan or not. And the annual maximums you can contribute to an IRA have changed, too. Beginning in January, individuals can contribute up to $2,000 (up to $2,250 for yourself and non-working spouse). And if you both work, the ceiling goes up to $4,000.

Here's the best part. The full amount you contribute each year to your IRA is tax-deductible. And all the money in your IRA, including interest, is tax-deferred until you begin withdrawing it, when you'll likely be in a lower tax bracket.

Tax-deferred savings grow faster.

The money that stays in your IRA account that would have gone to taxes makes a dramatic difference in how your nest egg grows. For example, if you deposited $2,000 every year to your IRA for the next 30 years, that $60,000 will balloon to over $380,000, based on a conservative 10% annual compounded return.

Get the facts.

To find out how to get in on this monumental tax break, stop by any Hancock Bank office. We'll show you how to cut your taxes the rest of your life, with the tax-cut of a lifetime.

390 players in area soccer

The Bay Area Soccer Club held its semi-annual meeting last Thursday at the Lutheran Church of the Pines.

The club has 26 teams and 390 registered players.

The board is pursuing a continuing education program by trying to obtain training films and investigating the possibility of hosting a Star Soccer Clinic this summer.

The recreational division Playdowns will start April 23-24 with five clubs being represented—BASC, SMSC, Biloxi, Singing River, and Ocean Springs. A Coaching/Referee Clinic will be held at the Seminary Field on Feb. 19 at 2:30 p.m. during and after the scheduled game there.

The policy regarding postponement of games due to the playability of the fields was presented after a discussion. Games will be played on the fields unless lightning or deep water render the playing conditions hazardous, and such a decision will be made by the head referee in consultation with the age division commissioners at the beginning of the day, or by the referee on the field at the time the hazardous condition arises.

Postponement of games for other reasons will be discouraged, and will only be granted unless there are compelling reasons and with the consent of both coaches and the age group commissioner involved.

On Saturday, Feb. 26, BASC will have its "Picture Day." A photographer will be at the Seminary Field starting at 8:30 a.m. to take team and individual pictures. This will be the only day, so all players and coaches should make arrangements to be there, preferably before they play.

Also, the Bay Area Soccer Club is offering a $25 prize for the person who comes up with the best emblem for BASC. All entries should be given to the secretary, Frank Gray, 137 Tenth St., Bay St. Louis, no later than Feb. 28.

The winning entry will be decided by the board at their first meeting after that date. Put on your creative thinking caps and come up with an emblem which represents the Bay Area and promotes soccer!

At the next general membership meeting there will be the election of a new board for 1983-84, a discussion of leveling procedures to be used in the future, a discussion of the playing season, and a proposed change to the bylaws which will automatically terminate a board member who misses three consecutive board meetings.

Basketball league to start play

The Bay Area Church Basketball League starts its play this week with a full slate of games.

There are seven teams in the league and the games are played each Tuesday and Thursday evenings through the week after Easter, except for Maunday Thursday.

This week, St. Rose plays against St. Paul; Methodist takes on the Baptists; and OLG plays SCLC.

Next Tuesday Feb. 22 at 7 p.m., it is SCLC against Christ Episcopal; at 8:05 p.m. Baptist versus OLG; and at 9:10 p.m. St. Paul against Methodist.

Lady bodybuilder plans competition

By BREARD SNELLINGS
Linda Emmel of Diamondhead hopes to become Hancock County's first woman to win a bodybuilding title.

Her advisor, Liz Vest, actually held the titles of Miss New Orleans, Miss Louisiana and Miss Southern States, but she only moved to Bay St. Louis in August, and won the titles before she and her husband, Arley, owned a health spa in Houma.

Emmel is originally from New Orleans. She is 33, and has a seven-year-old son (Scott), and a husband who is a personnel manager for the port authority in Gulfport.

She's been living in the county for the last six years and is a physical education teacher at Hancock North Central Elementary School.

Emmel will be competing in the Bama Cup for Bodybuilders on Feb. 26 in Mobile. Some 20 men and six women from five states will be participating.

Although this is her first competitive meet, she's been working up to this level for two years now, when she first started working out with weights at Loiacano's Health Club in Bay St. Louis.

"Linda is the only woman we've had who wanted to get into bodybuilding," says Jimmy Loiacano, "and we've been here for four years now."

Arley Vest, himself the current Mr. Louisiana and Mr. Gulf Coast in the Masters (over 40) category, says Emmel "could be a national caliber competitor within a year."

"You don't often see someone of Linda's caliber," says Vest. "She has excellent leg development and good abdominals."

Women bodybuilders are judged on symmetry, which is the proportion and development of the body; muscularity, which is size and definition of muscle development; and presentation, which involves the posing routine, stage presence and charisma.

"Her weak points are her upper and lower back. That needs development," says Vest.

Emmel says she plans to continue bodybuilding at Loiacano's, win or lose.

"I got to a point in my bodybuilding where I needed a challenge, and entering competitive meets should be it," she said, adding that "the meet should be a good way to get up to date on the latest bodybuilding methods for women, as well."

Emmel will be competing in the heavyweight class, which is 116 pounds and over. At 115 pounds, she just barely qualifies.

"If I win this meet, I qualify for a district or national meet," she explained.

There are several thousand women nationwide involved in the sport of bodybuilding, according to Vest.

The men's aspect of the sport began in the late 1930's, but the women have only been competing for the last four or five years, he said, adding that it's big in Florida and California, but hasn't caught on in too many other places.

Emmel says she works out three times a week for 2-3 hours at a time. She also teaches an aerobics class at Loiacano's.

"I've got a background in dance as a youngster, and in sports in high school, but other than that, I just like keeping in shape and getting the ultimate out of my body," she explains.

"Frankly, I'm worried about competing against 20-year-olds at my age (33), but that's part of the challenge. Age 20 to 30 is the usual age for women bodybuilders."

"But I got into the sport just to stay in condition. You don't need any reason to exercise your body other than to stay in shape."

By David H. Jones

HBO During February "STAR WARS" tops the movie list this month on Home Box Office.

(1) "STAR WARS." This blockbuster film was the top money-maker in motion picture rentals until "E.T. the Extraterrestrial" edged it out recently.

That aside, George Lucas' "STAR WARS," the fourth episode in a planned nine-segment series, is a hyperspace, action-packed movie that wings its way into our hearts and imaginations. Starring Mark Hamill, Harrison Ford, Carrie Fisher, Alec Guinness, R2D2 and C3PO—the latter two being the endearing robots that tumble through the movie like a mechanized Abbott and Costello—"STAR WARS" is a harmless adventure filled with spectacular special effects and enough tongue-in-cheek to make it fun.

(2) "Swamp Thing." Speaking of tongue-in-cheek, this film is a quirky parody of every monster-in-the-swamp movie you've ever seen. Adrienne Barbeau wallows through a creepy Southern swamp chased by a band of renegade mercenaries lead by Louis Jordan.

The highlight of the film, besides the outrageous special effects, is the acting of Reggie Bates, who plays Jude, When the Swamp Thing holds Jude hoping to discern if the boy is alive. Jude opens his eyes, puts on his glasses and says, "Well... there goes the neighborhood."

ETV Brief

BLACK HISTORY

"Where You There," a seven-part series spotlighting significant periods in recent Afro-American history through the memories of some of the people who lived during those times, will be broadcast at 10:30 p.m., Thursdays, beginning Feb. 17, on the Mississippi ETV Network. It was first telecast on ETV last summer.

One program in the series, "The Facts of Life," features bluesman Willie Dixon, a musician-composer whose work has been performed by Lou Rawls, Mose Allison, the Rolling Stones, Ray Charles, Muddy Waters and Oscar Brown Jr.

In "The Cotton Club," Harlem's great night spot of the 1930s is remembered by five alumni: Avon "Sportin' Life" Long, Cab Calloway, the two Nicholas Brothers and showstopper Estrellita.

Other programs introduce such personalities as artists Hughie Lee-Smith and Jacob Lawrence, Negro League baseball star Art Wilson and Olympic gold medalist Alice Coachman.

Programs were shot on location in New York, New Jersey, Arizona, Colorado, Chicago, Washington, Alabama and California.

Wes Craven wrote and directed this off-beat film of revenge and romance.

(3) "Sharkey's Machine." But Reynolds directed and stars in this typical police yarn complete with sex, language and unmitigated gore. For Reynolds' fans this production should fulfill their need to see the veteran macho actor offering his own brand of tenderness.

(4) "Thief." James Caan and Jim Belushi (the late John Belushi's brother) give fine, hard-edged performances as businessmen by day and thieves by night. A film filled with unrelieved tension, "Thief" succeeds on the stellar performances of its cast, an excellent script and an explosive ending accented by the electric hard-rock sounds of "Tangerine Dream." Be forewarned though, "Thief" contains extremely harsh language near the end and the violence is equalled only by Scorsese's "Taxi Driver."

(5) "Arthur." An uproarious comedy starring Dudley Moore and Liza Minnelli. John Gielgud won an Oscar for his performance as Arthur's indifferent valet. The first hour of this film constitutes one of the finest comedies ever assembled and, although it slumps badly toward the end, it makes dandy fare for anyone in the mood for a good belly laugh.

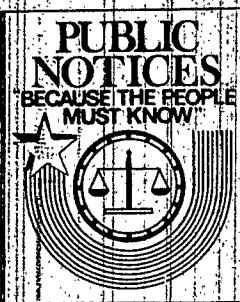

(6) "Raggedy Man." Sissy Spacek in her first role since winning an Oscar for "Coal Miner's Daughter." She gives a beautifully subdued performance as a small-town telephone operator with two sons who falls in love with a sailor. Violent overtones contribute to an uncertain ending. A good, solid film.

(7) "Animal House." A sophomore tale of fraternal life during the 1960s. This film is worth watching simply to see Tim Matheson go through the routines as an unsincere Don Juan who is never at a loss for words. A good, mindless romp that provides occasional laughter.

Two HBO specials worth watching are "Simon and Garfunkel: The Concert in Central Park" and "George Carlin at Carnegie Hall." Carlin is uproarious as usual with his own very special brand of personal humor. And Simon and Garfunkel's hour and a half concert is marked by beautiful photography and immaculate sound recording. Garfunkel's rendition of "Bridge Over Troubled Water" will send goosebumps through your body. And together, the reunited duo are brilliant doing such timeless classics as "The Boxer," "Mrs. Robinson" and "The Sounds of Silence."

This being an indication of HBO's talent for bringing live performances to television, I can't wait for Fleetwood

Mac's upcoming concert. Finally, coming in March to HBO is "Charlote of Fire," which won Best Picture of 1981; and "Shoot the Moon" starring Albert Finney and Diane Keaton, a memorable film by Alan Parker dealing with an American divorce.

Libraries should be exempt from censorship laws

(The following article resulted from a grant made by the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities, to the Mississippi Press Association. The opinions expressed are those of the author.)

By ELLIS TUCKER

School of Library and Information Science
University of Mississippi

To paraphrase a line from a Broadway play: There's trouble in (the) River State.

Those who make our laws are anxious about our general well being. They want to protect us from that which is obscene or pornographic.

Such concern is similar to that which area residents must have had for Medusa, the ugly creature with snakes for hair who turned people to stone when they looked at her.

Our lawmakers want to sever such writhing ugliness from society. Armed with support from friends, even as Perseus had friendly support, they would perform the unpleasant task with the sword of community standards.

When faced with the assurance that "God, motherhood, and apple pie" are on the side of the proponents of such anti-obscenity bills as Senate Bills 2144 and 2161, who would dare to oppose them?

Library leaders in a recent meeting hesitated to speak for or against the proposed legislation. They were afraid that they would experience guilt by association if they were thought to be fighting in the same corner with owners of "dirty" bookstores and owners of theaters which run pornographic films.

Similarly, one legislator said, "I hope we can bring about any needed changes during the committee hearings rather than on the floor."

Traditionally librarians and the press have fought against all forms of censorship. Now their camps are divided. Many librarians feel that by judicious selection they can effectively serve their clientele.

They even find somewhat palatable legislation directed toward the removal of those who traffic in materials generally considered to be pornographic.

Unfortunately, it is not easy to define pornography. The proposed legislation defined it in terms of that which is obscene.

Before listing those acts and materials considered obscene, the bill states, "To the average person, applying community standards..."

Therein lies the problem. Community standards vary widely. In some communities "shameful or morbid interest" could prevent a library from holding materials in the area of sex education or even a book on child care which speaks of "potty training."

In other communities, such as our convention sites where attendees have come to expect a reasonable supply of sex and booze, it is unlikely that such tame topics would cause the lifting of an eyebrow.

The connotation of the word "contemporary" could also be hazardous to the general welfare. In those communities which experience frequent shifts in population, contemporary standards governing obscenity could change periodically.

Likewise, changes in leadership results in the standards changing from election to election in any given community.

It is difficult to determine just how many constraints should be placed on society. Generally, too many restraints is worse than too few.

Moreover, restrictive laws frequently create what they purport to destroy. The forbidden carries with it an aura of desirability.

Finally, and perhaps most importantly, to pass laws which prohibit obscene materials is to shirk the responsibility that all citizens have to maintain personal standards and to teach their children to eschew those materials.

It relieves us from articulating the reasons behind such personal restraints, for we hide behind the law, a weakness democracies cannot permit.

Librarians long ago developed standards for the selection of materials. Complaints are handled by established procedures that permit individuals to express opinions but protects the majority from the whims of vocal vigilante groups that constantly attack our greatest artists and writers.

If the Mississippi legislature passes Senate Bills 2144 and 2161 in their current forms, librarians can be constantly harassed by individuals who want to apply their particular brand of "contemporary community standards."

As one librarian put it, "We'd be circulating books from the local police station, while the wheels of justice slowly grind."

We would all watch the strange sight of a librarian from Pontotoc in court defending the circulation of a particular book, while at the same moment a colleague in Piquette was routinely charging out the same title to a patron.

Students and teachers at institutions of higher learning are already exempted in this bill.

If there must be legislation, such accredited agencies as museums, libraries, and schools should be added to the colleges and universities, for none of these institutions wittingly plans to be purveyors of material that is lacking in "literary, artistic, political, or scientific value."

However, let none of us forget that wholesome, positive attitudes by leaders, teachers, and parents can instruct and lead more effectively than any law.

CIVIL RIGHTS

"Fund: The Story of Ella Baker" (documents the life of a woman who was considered a giant in the civil rights movement at 11 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 23, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

"Fund" is a Swahili word that describes a person in a community who passes on skills from one generation to the next. Persons who knew Ella Baker say that "fund" accurately applies to her.

Harry Belafonte, who introduces the film, has said, "Fund: The Story of Ella Baker" fills a gap for those who know little of the history of black struggle. It is a compelling portrait of an extraordinary woman who devoted her life to struggle and to the people who take part in it."

Out of Every Revenue Dollar United Gas Earns 3 Cents

That's right.

Just three cents.

Because most of our revenue dollar is paid out to companies and people that own natural gas reserves. In 1981 more than 83 cents out of every dollar—a whopping 83 per cent—was paid to others for natural gas we delivered to customers.

Now take away 9 cents for the cost of operations. Two cents for the payroll, two cents for taxes. One cent for depreciation. And out of this United Gas dollar there's three cents left.

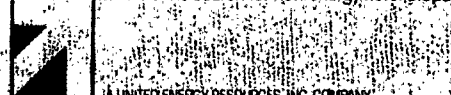

That's our net return.

Because we don't explore for or produce gas for sale. We contract for our natural gas reserves. Millions of dollars paid to United Gas go right out to the field where the gas comes from in the first place. Our role is to bring gas to customers... and over the years we think we've done it reasonably and well.

And as natural gas grows more valuable, the need for conservation grows more imperative. Conserve. The economic future of our region depends on natural gas. What we save today will be needed tomorrow.

CREATIVE IDEAS IN WOOD

If you like backyard cookouts, you know the value of a picnic table. There's no better way to serve your outdoor meal than with family or friends gathered around one.

The picnic table pictured here has an advantage over regular picnic tables: The tabletop folds down and you've got a bench.

The top pivots on a pin in the legs, allowing the top to be locked into position as either a tabletop or a back rest for a bench.

Constructed of 2 x 4's and 2 x 6's, the picnic table/bench is both sturdy and easy to build.

Make two and set them face-to-face.

If you'd like the detailed instructions to make this picnic table/bench, ask us for Idea No. 1851 and send $2 to Creative Ideas in Wood, c/o this newspaper, 750 Center Drive, Vandalia, Ohio 45377.

Woodworkers' Forum

Question: I want to make some outdoor furniture. Which wood is the best to set out in the weather?

Cedar and redwood are more commonly used in outdoor projects. They both resist decay and weather nicely with no need for painting. Check with your lumber store. They may also have several kinds of pressure-treated wood made especially for outdoor use.

We're glad to answer wood-working questions from readers. Write us at our Vandalia address and please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope to help facilitate a quick reply.

MENTAL HEALTH COMMISSION—The Region XIII Mental Health and Mental Retardation Commission is made up of one commissioner each from Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River, and Stone Counties. The commission's 1983 officers include, from left, Jack Mobley of Poplarville, chairman; Ona Mae Willingham from Stone County, vice chairman; Anita Lamb from Hancock County, secretary; and Dr. Joe Holloway from Harrison County, treasurer. The Gulf Coast Mental Health Center which is governed by the Region XIII Commission has its main office in Gulfport. Other offices and programs include Hancock Industries, a work training program for mentally handicapped adults, and a Mental Health satellite office, both located in Bay St. Louis. Anita (Neetale) Lamb, who has been a member of this commission since January, 1975, said that while there were significant cutbacks in both federal and state funds for mental health and mental retardation programs this year, there would be no significant cutbacks in Hancock County programs. Persons in Hancock County wishing information concerning mental health mental retardation services may call 467-0153.

UNO PRODUCTION—Sue Ann Myer recalls fond memories in the University of New Orleans production of William Saroyan's "The Beautiful People" to be performed Feb. 25-26 and March 3-5 at 8 p.m., and Feb. 27 at 2:30 p.m. in the UNO Performing Arts Center Theatre East.

Lifestyles and Heartburn

Whether you are a working mother hurrying from the office to pick up the kids at the day-care center, an executive racing to catch the next flight home, or a parent late for your eight-year-old's soccer game, you are probably suffering from some form of stress.

According to Dr. Donald O. Castell, director of the Section of Gastroenterology and a professor of medicine at Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Winston-Salem, N.C., many Americans have lifestyles that create stress, which may result in heartburn.

Heartburn is the backup of digesting food into the esophagus. It's caused by a variety of factors, says Dr. Castell, and stress is believed to be one of them because it produces acid in the stomach.

What do you do when you suffer from heartburn? One solution is to take an antacid—such as Gaviscon[®], made by Marion Laboratories—that soothes the lining of the esophagus, preventing the stomach acid from contacting the delicate tissues of the esophagus. Gaviscon protects the esophgus and contains an antacid. It has the advantage of working while you are lying down, often the time of greatest discomfort.

Although it is difficult to alter people's lifestyles, Dr. Castell offers several suggestions for relieving the symptoms of heartburn:

- Sleep with the head of your bed raised about six inches (preferably by placing blocks under the legs at the head of the bed).
- Stop or cut down on smoking.
- Reduce if you're overweight.
- Avoid beverages that may stimulate acid secretion in the stomach, such as coffee and alcohol.

DAM SAFETY LIABILITY

As population pressures increase in Mississippi and elsewhere, it becomes increasingly important that water impoundments are properly designed and built, that they are maintained with safety in mind, and that both owners of dams and those people living below them are aware of hazards with resulting liabilities if these prerequisites are not followed.

Mississippi's earthen dam system is a large one as this state harnesses an uncommon volume of rainfall and run-off. And fortunately, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has seen to it that such large dams as those at Grenada, Enid, Sardis and Arkabutla were properly engineered and constantly maintained and monitored with safety ever in mind.

Those four major dams are federally owned and operated, and Uncle Sam would be liable for damages in the event any should break during stress or accident and endanger the people and property below them.

Michael Logue, a spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers district at Vicksburg, reports that these dams undergo extensive inspections every five years and constantly are monitored. During flood stress periods the Corps provides around-the-clock surveillance.

However, of the millions of dams that have been built in this nation for human water supplies, flood protection, energy generation, irrigation, livestock watering, wildlife habitat, or recreation—fewer than 4,000 of these are owned by the federal government. The vast majority of all dams are owned by local governments or other public entities, businesses and individuals. So these are the ones in the private sector who must hold their personal feet to safety's fire to prevent dam mishaps with resulting losses of life and property.

The Corps has inventoried 67,000 dams in the U.S. which are higher than 25 feet or which impound more than 50 acre-feet of water. Of these, 8,000 are classified as "high hazard," terminology which has little to do with engineering or the current physical condition of a dam but has a lot to do with a hazardous positioning of people or property below a dam of such size.

Jackson's nearby Ross Barnett Reservoir falls into a classification of high hazard because our capital city lies below the dam with parts of the city and its surroundings susceptible to damages if the dam should be broken. By way of assurance, Marion Stewart of the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources describes the Ross Barnett dam as "one of the better built ones."

In recent years the Corps has inspected all non-federal high hazard dams and found nearly 3,000 had defects serious enough to be classified as unsafe.

BUILD A $20 PORTABLE DC ARC WELDER

Experimenter Dennis Burkholder, a staff member at MOTHER's Eco-Village, decided that—after scrounging up an old power mower, a set-aside Delco-Remy automobile alternator, and a weary but serviceable 12-volt deep-cycle battery—he had just about everything he needed to build a portable, intermittent-duty, low-voltage, DC welder for those infrequent in-the-field jobs he's called upon to do. Sure enough, after trying a couple of different combinations of the scrap components, he came up with what must be the least expensive (and strangest looking) arc welder ever assembled.

Essentially, the welder is powered by the roughly 50 amps that the Delco-Remy alternator is capable of producing... and is adjusted by varying the speed of the lawnmower engine. But the 12-volt battery is needed to balance out those surges that occur when the arc is struck or broken. Furthermore, Dennis found that the setup worked a lot more smoothly with two 1-1/2-ohm, 8-amp Chrysler product ballast resistors placed in series with the field of the alternator, to cut the field voltage to about 6 volts. (In fact, without the two resistors, striking an arc would nearly kill the 3-HP Briggs & Stratton engine!)

Considering that the parts for the project are almost all scavenged, the welder is amazingly versatile. For one thing, DC capability is often preferred for smooth sheet-metal work, and our lawnmower unit can have its polarity reversed for changing the penetration and spatter qualities of its arc! There are, however, a few limitations to the tool's capabilities. First, the maximum heat of the arc is about 50 amps, so the welder for more than about 20 minutes at a time to avoid overheating the alternator (the thermal overload switch shown in the schematic drawing automatically tells you when enough is enough).

And finally, the unit's low-voltage DC current presents both an advantage and a disadvantage over conventional AC power. Because the voltage of a circuit determines the distance a spark will jump, the rod used with our portable welder must be held steadily close to the surface of the work to maintain an arc. But, because it is a direct-current welder, there's little tendency for the rod to become stuck.

Of course, the most astounding thing about Dennis's welder is how little it cost. The only components that our researcher was forced to buy were the resistors, which he located at the nearest auto parts store. And—even if your storehouse of valuable discards doesn't equal MOTHER's—you should still be able to purchase the resistors, wires, switches, pulleys (between 1-1 and 1.5-1, depending on the RPM rating of the alternator), and V-belt for less than $20. When you think about it, a $20 DC arc welder, with a built-in dolly, might be the workshop bargain of the year!
